Accreditation

Accreditation can be used for almost any activity between young people or a young person and a worker. You can start with the plaining of an activity or after an activity has taken place.

Before starting an activity: -In conjunction with the Young Person think about what learning activity you are going to undertake.

After an activity: -

In conjunction with the Young Person think about what learning that has taken place.

Have a look on the AQA Award website and see if there is an award that matches with your learning outcomes.
